1768. A Gentleman from Swansey, writes.—Being a Spectator, at the setting of the Assembly at Providence, I had the opportunity, of hearing the publick Letters read,—among others, one in particular excited my curiosity; I therefore took it down in characters, from which I wrote the whole at large, and having heard the same read a second time, you may be assured the following is a correct copy: As it is of a pretty extraordinary nature, you are requested to insert it in your useful paper.

March 3d. 1768.

Yours.

No. 11. Circular. Duplicate.

Whitehall, September 2d. 1768.

Gentlemen,

The King having observed that the Governors of his colonies have upon several occasions, taken upon them to communicate to their councils and assemblies, either the whole or parts of Letters, which they have received from his Majesty's principal Secretaries of State: I have it in command from his Majesty, to signify to you, that it is his Majesty's pleasure, that you do not upon any pretence whatever, communicate to the assembly, any copies or extracts of such Letters, as you shall receive from his Majesty's principal Secretaries of State, unless you have his Majesty's particular directions for so doing. (2)

I am Gentlemen, your most obedient, Governor & Company of the } humble Servant, Colony of Rhode-Island. } HILLSBOROUGH.

One cannot but observe, that this Letter intended for the direction of the Governor's conduct alone, and requiring him not to communicate upon any pretence whatever, to the assemblies, copies or extracts of letters from the Secretaries of State, without special leave, is directed to the Governor & Company. And it might perhaps have been no disservice to government, and no dishonour to the Secretary for the American department, if some of his letters had been actually and forever concealed. His letter to G—r B—d—d requiring him to dissolve the assembly of the Massachusetts in case of non-refracting, had better have been kept secret.—The Secretary was charged in parliament, with threatening a corporation in order to command its decisions, even Mr. George Grenville spoke of this order, in the house of Commons, as an unwarrantable stretch of power. Had this letter never been communicated to the Massachusetts house, this charge on the Secretary of State, would have been avoided, and much trouble saved to himself, as well as to his friends, in their attempt to vindicate it. They said it was never design'd to be communicated, and was a direction only for the Governor's conduct, being directed to him, and not to the house.—But it was laid before the house, by the Governor, and so became a menace in form to a free assembly, as full as if it had been directed to them: Tho' through the virtue and never to be forgotten firmness of the members, it had not the intended effect. How far G. B. misstook, or exceeded the intention of the Secretary, I pretend not to say, but leave this dark point to be settled between themselves.

It is to be wish'd, that the letters from the great Officers at home were more carefully attended to, and founded upon a more accurate knowledge of the constitution of the colonies, their true state & temper, and the methods by which they might be made most serviceable to the parent country.—We have heard that L. H. gave orders to the G—r of P—, in case the assembly of that province did not act conformably to his pleasure, immediately to dissolve them. Whereas it is an inherent privilege of that house, to sit on its own adjournments, and not in the power of any governor to dissolve them.—Such mistakes, and many others of much greater importance, that have taken place, shews the wisdom of the British government, in granting originally to the several colonies, a government among themselves, founded upon its own happy model.—A government, tho' subordinate, yet sacred and inviolable, and not to be controuled in its grand principles.—For if the colonies, are bound to make no laws repugnant to those of Great-Britain, it is at least equally reasonable that Great-Britain should make none for the colonies, inconsistent with their essential Rights, as British subjects, and repugnant to the spirit and first principles of the British constitution.

March 5. Letters from South Carolina, mention, That if the revenue act, for the repeal whereof, this whole continent have earnestly and unanimously petitioned, be not speedily repealed, the generality of the people of that province, will strictly adhere to several resolutions they have lately entered into, for establishing economy, encouraging provincial labour, and keeping more money in the colonies; amongst which, are the following. 1st. Not to purchase or cause to be purchased, any goods whatever, imported from G. B. except hard ware. 2d. To go heartily to work in manufacturing their own, and negroes clothing. 3d. To avoid as much as possible, the purchasing of new negroes. 4th. To give all possible encouragement to the importation of such goods (not prohibited) as are manufactured in other of his Majesty's colonies. 5th. Totally to disuse all kinds of mourning, &c.

We have also the pleasure of being advised from Philadelphia, that their merchants were about signing articles, not to import any more English goods, and that there was no doubt of their abiding by them. The friends of America on the other side the water, having clearly pointed it out to them, as a measure absolutely necessary to be immediately taken, if they would hope for a full redress of our present grievances.

March 6. The quartering troops upon British Americans, in time of peace, is quite repugnant to the bill of Rights, and a measure that always has been considered as an intolerable grievance, by a free people.—Bold and daring as the present M—rs have shewn themselves, in the rapid inroads they have made upon the British constitution; they have yet modestly aimed at saving appearances, with respect to the troops that have been cruelly intruded upon this town. A pretence has been framed, that the aid of the military was absolutely necessary to preserve order in the town, and support the civil magistrate in the execution of his duty; and the M—y have declared to the world that they were to act no otherwise than as their assistants. This covering, which the M—y have endeavoured to wrap themselves in, has proved too scanty for the purpose; and the cloven foot is visible to every American. Preceding articles in this Journal, evince what friends the military have proved to the peace and order of the town, and the following relation, among others, will satisfy the publick, what kind of support the civil magistrate can reasonably expect from such a quarter.

As some sailors were passing near Mr. Justice Ruddock's house, the other night, with a woman in company, they were met by a number of soldiers, one of whom, as usual with those people, claimed the woman for his wife; this soon bro't on a battle in which the sailors were much bruised, and a young man of the town, who was only a spectator, received a considerable wound on his head; a great cry of murder, brought out the Justice, and his son, into the street; when the former who is a gentleman of spirit, immediately laid his hands upon two of the assailants, and called out to one who pretended to be an officer, and all other persons present, requiring them in his Majesty's name to assist him as a magistrate, in securing those rioters; instead of this, he was presently surrounded with thirty or forty soldiers, who had their bayonets in their hands, notwithstanding the unreasonable time of night; some of whom endeavoured to loose his hold of the persons he had seized, but not being able to do it, they then made at him with their fists and bayonets; when he received such blows as obliged him to seek his safety by flight; they struck down a young woman at his door holding out a candle, and followed him and son into the entry-way of his house with their bayonets, uttering the most profane & abusive language, and swearing they would be the death of them both; upon the first assault given to the magistrate, one of the persons present posted away to the town house, and acquainted the commanding officer of the picket guard, of what was taking place; but it seems that officer did not apprehend himself at liberty to order a party out to secure, or disperse those riotous drunken soldiers. Due enquiry is making for the discovery of those daring offenders, in order to their being presented to the grand jury, a bayonet wrested from one of the pursuers in the entry, may lead to the knowledge of the owner, and be a means of procuring proof.—This magistrate who has before shewn himself to be an enemy to every kind of riot and disorder; has had many threats lately thrown out against him, and suffered no little insult and disquiet: The other evening a petty officer of one of the ships of war, who had knocked down a married woman of this town, as she was quietly passing the streets, was bro't before him; and being reproved for his indecent speech & behaviour, on trial, he swore that he would run his jack-knife thro' the magistrates heart, whereupon the Justice committed him to goal; soon after as several fishermen were coming out of a tavern in the same part of the town, they were assaulted by a corporal and some soldiers, who wounded one of the fishermen very grievously, they were soon apprehended, and brought before the said Justice, who was kept up the chief part of the night on the occasion. In short, disorders and violences, are so increasing, that is said this magistrate is intending an application to his Majesty's council, for their countenance and assistance, in raising and arming such a number of the inhabitants as may be sufficient to secure himself and the inhabitants from receiving any future insults from Lord H—b—gh's military Peace preservers.

March 7. The inhabitants of the New England governments really seem in earnest to promote industry, by encouraging home manufactures; for this we are under the greatest advantages, having Wool, Flax and other raw materials in plenty, and the quantity annually increasing; new and skilful Artizans are daily multiplying upon us, and may already find full employ.—In Rhode-Island, it is now expected that gentlemen in office recommend themselves to their constituents, by encouraging and patronizing their own manufactures, and so earnest are many of the inhabitants to save their country from ruin, that they have resolved not to give their votes for any of the candidates at their ensuing election, who do not appear principally clothed in cloth manufactured either in that, or other American colonies.—Connecticut is in a like respect, become an example worthy of imitation, their clergy and those in office among them, pride themselves in being clothed by the industry of their wives and children, with the wool and flax of their own growth.—The people of New-Hampshire, are making progress in their manufactures, and it is with as much pleasure, as truth, we can tell the world, that the inhabitants of the Massachusetts, already provide themselves with the chief part of their necessary clothing.—Several well approved schemes are now on foot in Boston, for the employment of our poor, under very able direction,—a great number of suits of homespun cloth are fabricated for, by its principal gentlemen.—The clergy and men in office through the province, countenance and encourage this spirit of industry; and the man, be his family or estate ever so distinguish'd, is now more respected with an honest home made garment, than if he were clad with the most gaudy attire of the East. There are some of the happy effects, flowing from the injudicious burdens and restrictions laid upon our foreign trade; and the resentment which Americans have taken, at having their assemblies dissolv'd for not complying with the mandates of a M—r, and at the steps taken to drag us rather than reason us into a submission to the late measures of A—d—n.

St. JAMES'S, March 22. 1769.

THIS day a most numerous body of the Merchants, Traders, and other principal Inhabitants of the City of London, waited on his Majesty; and being introduced to his Majesty by the Earl of Hertford, Lord Chamberlain of the Household, they presented the following address.

To the King's most Excellent Majesty.

Most Gracious Sovereign,

W E your Majesty's most dutiful and loyal subjects, the Merchants, Traders, and other principal Inhabitants of your City of London, truly sensible that it has been your Majesty's constant care & principal object, since you ascended the throne of your illustrious ancestors, to secure to your people the full enjoyment of their religion, laws, and liberties inviolable, and to make them happy and flourishing, under your Majesty's most auspicious government, beg leave to profess our steady loyalty and duty to your Majesty, and our firm resolution to exert our utmost power in supporting the honor and dignity of your Majesty's crown, in preserving the safety, peace, and tranquility of your Majesty's realms, in maintaining public credit, and promoting commerce, for the benefit of your subjects throughout your dominions.

"And we beg leave to express our concern and abhorrence of every attempt to spread sedition, to inflame the minds, and alienate the affections of a free and loyal people from the best of Kings, and his Government, which we apprehend has of late been encouraged, without the least shadow of foundation, by some ill-designing persons, to answer sinister and selfish purposes.

"And we most sincerely pray Almighty God, that your Majesty's great and bright example of piety, goodness, and clemency, may operate to effectually upon the minds of your people, as to suppress the spirit of licentiousness, profaneness, and irreligion, which has been industriously propagated, to delude the unwary to their own destruction; and that the same good Providence will grant your Majesty a long & happy reign over a dutiful & loyal people, and bless your endeavours with success, in a firm and permanent establishment of our most excellent constitution, which is not only admired, but envied by all foreign nations."

To which address his Majesty was pleased to return this most gracious Answer.

THE just sense you entertain of my desire to secure to my people the full enjoyment of their religion, laws, and liberties; and the strong assurances you give me of your resolution to support the dignity of my crown, to preserve peace among my subjects, to maintain public credit, and to promote commerce, afford me the greatest satisfaction; as well as your abhorrence of that inflammatory spirit of sedition, which it has been the business of artful and specious misrepresentation to propagate.

"The warm wishes you express for the stability and permanence of this happy constitution, and the interest you take in my prosperity, will always deserve my favour and protection."

They were all most graciously received, and had the honour to kiss his Majesty's hand.

A. D. 1769.

March 23. Yesterday at noon, about six hundred of the principal merchants of this city, set out from the Royal Exchange, in their carriages, in order to present an Address to his Majesty, attended by the City Marshal and Constables. Before they got to Chesham, the people shewed them many marks of their resentment, by hissing, groaning, throwing dirt, &c. but when they arrived in Fleet-street, the multitude grew quite outrageous, broke the windows of the coaches, and threw stones; and the people on the other side Temple-bar shutting the gates, the Cavalcade was obliged to stop. Mr. Cook, the city Marshal, & his attendants going to open the gates, were pelted with mud. The populace then attacked the gentlemen in their carriages; Mr. Boehm and several of his friends being covered with dirt, were obliged to take shelter in Nando's coffee-house. Some of the coaches then drove up Chancery-lane, Fetter-lane, and Shoe-lane; but the greatest part of the gentlemen, finding it impossible to proceed, returned home.—The Address, however, did at length reach St. James's, but the mob threw dirt at the gentlemen as they got out of their carriages at St. James's gate.

The Riot Act was twice read at St. James's gate, and the mob not dispersing, but still continuing to be riotous, seventeen of the most active were secured.

When some of the coaches got to Exeter Exchange, a hearse came out of Exeter-street, and preceded them, drawn by a black and a white horse, the driver of which was dressed in a kind of rough coat, resembling a skull, with a large cap, one side black the other white, whose whole figure was very grotesque; on one side of the hearse was painted on canvas, a representation of the rioters killing Mr. Clarke at the Brentford election; and on the other side, was a representation of the soldiers firing on young Allen in the cow-house. (2)

— The Speech of Thom's Pownall, Esq; in the House of Commons, in favor of America, may be had of T. & J. Fleet and Edes & Gill.

While the mob were at St. James's, the proclamation against riots was read, and several persons taken into custody by the soldiers; and two were taken by Lord T——, who was the only Minister who had resolution to come down among the mob; his Lordship had secured another, who was rescued, and his Lordship received a violent blow on the head, by being thrown against a coach, and then thought it prudent to take shelter among the soldiers.

March 17. Yesterday morning came on at Brentford, the Election of a Knight of the Shire, for the County of Middlesex, when John Wilkes, Esq; was re-chosen without opposition. Mr. Dingley, who had offered himself as a Candidate by an Advertisement in the Papers, appeared on the Hustings, but was not proposed by any Gentleman present; and tho' the Sheriffs repeatedly went round the Hustings to ask if any Gentleman would offer himself as a Candidate, no one was nominated, whereupon Mr. Wilkes was declared duly elected.

There is a fine new ship now in the river, near the Tower, called WILKES, with the picture of Mr. Wilkes on the fore part of it: It is shortly to make a voyage to America, laden with the richest cargo of goods that ever was shipped for that part of the world.

March 20. Last night a popular gentleman was expelled from a certain Assembly.

The Lucretia, Folger, from London for Nantucket, is put into Falmouth with the loss of her Boysprit.

A new writ is ordered to be issued for the Election of a Knight of the Shire for the County of Middlesex, in the room of John Wilkes, Esq; he being adjudged incapable.

It is said that matters are now so concerted, that the next election will be final.

March 21. Sunday died, Sir Thomas Fludyer, Knt. Member of Parliament for Chippenham in Wilts.

It is expected the P—— will adjourn to-morrow for the holidays, after which, it is tho't, the whole business of the sessions will be finished within a month.

Yesterday morning about five o'clock, a fire broke out at a distiller's, in Great Russell-street, Covent-Garden, which entirely consumed all the houses up to the piazzas, and burnt all the houses under the piazzas down to the Bedford Arms, where it happily ceased, owing to there being a strong party wall behind that house.

When the above fire happened, a Noble Duke, in bed with his favourite girl, narrowly escaped being burned to death, they had just time enough to run out of the house with their cloaths under their arms, to escape the flames.

It is remarked with pleasure that among the number of Mr. Wilkes's friends are 3 of the city members.

March 24. Yesterday his Majesty went to the House of Peers and gave the Royal assent to the following bills, viz.

The bill to punish mutiny and desertion in the American colonies; and for providing quarters for his Majesty's troops in the said colonies. [We hear this is a new Act which was proposed by a Friend of the Colonies, and concurred by the Secretary of War.]

The bill to dissolve the marriage of his Grace the Duke of Grafton, and to enable him to marry again.

Betts are five to one that Col. L—— does not appear as a candidate for Middlesex on the 13th of next month, as the necessary step of appointing him to the stewardship of a certain manor must be previously taken.

It is impossible to describe the heartiness of the Freeholders, who protested that they would go to Brentford, not only every month, but every day, if necessary, rather than desert or betray their rights, and would sooner lay down their freeholds, or their lives, than give up their inherent and unalienable privilege of choosing.

To the Gentlemen, Clergy, and Freeholders of the County of MIDDLESEX.

Gentlemen,

I F I had not experienced your unwearied zeal for Liberty and the defence of the fundamental Rights of the subject, I should feel some uneasiness in being now obliged by a third Expulsion to beg the favour of you to attend so soon again at Brentford to support your former choice. But I know you have the cause of your country at heart, and that you glory in every opportunity of convincing the world that you will never give up your title to a Free election. If you tamely suffer this most valuable Right of choosing your own Representative in Parliament to be taken from you, or rendered of no effect, you must not expect that the enjoyment of any meaner, or more inconsiderable, Franchise will be long permitted. The spirit of every Englishman revolts at the very idea; and the Freeholders of Middlesex have always firmly stood foremost in the Day of Trial, however severe and perilous.

The next County Court is fixed for Thursday the 13th of April, when the Election will come on at Brentford. The appearance of my friends at an early Hour of that Day I shall esteem as a very particular Obligation. I am, Gentlemen,

With Deference and Respect,

Your faithful and obliged humble Servant,

March 18. 1769.

JOHN WILKES.

S A L E M, April 25.

A very melancholy Accident happened, last Saturday Morning, on board the Brig Pitt-Packet, commanded by Capt. Thomas Power, belonging to Marblehead, and bound in there from Cadiz: The Brig, when within about 7 Leagues of Cape Ann, came across the Rose Man of War, was boarded, and two of her Men impressed; but these being for some Reasons released, the Lieutenant of the Rose, with a Number of Men, again boarded the Brig, in order to take some of the other Men, who, in Number, had secured themselves in the Fore-Peak, determining to defend themselves, with some Harpoons, &c. they had provided for the Purpose, as long as they had Life. The Lieutenant made use of moderate, kind and persuasive Arguments, and offered, first, to take but two, and afterwards but one; if they would surrender themselves; but all his Proposals and Intreaties being ineffectual to induce them to come up, the Lieutenant informed them that he was determined to make use of Force; and the Sailors as resolutely protested that they would kill any who should attempt to take them: A Pistol Charge of Powder was first fired at them, which burnt the Face of one Michael Corbett; and afterwards another of them received a Pistol Shot in his Arm, which broke the Bone: This increased their Resolution of dying rather than to surrender: And their whole Conduct seemed to manifest such Abhorrence of being forced on board a Man of War, as to prefer Death to such a Life as they deemed Slavery.—They repeatedly declared they would kill the first Man that offered to approach them: And a Man the Lieutenant sent in to begin the Attack upon them, was considerably wounded; on which he retreated. The Lieutenant then told them that he would lead the Way to them himself: Corbett answered him, with the most solemn Protestations, and called Almighty God to Witness, that so sure as he advanced one Inch further, he should instantly lose his Life. The Lieutenant told him then he had seen many a brave Fellow, should take a Pinch of Snuff, and then consider of it, which having deliberately done, he began to step towards them, when Corbett, agreeable to his Promise, immediately threw a Harpoon, which did instant Execution, it hit the Lieutenant near his throat, and cut the jugular Vein; on which he only had Time to say, that they had taken his Life; and, gasping three or four times, fell down and expired. The Sailors still continued to defend themselves, notwithstanding there was a large Number of Marines at this Time on board the Brig; but having provided themselves with a Quantity of Liquor, all but Corbett became so intoxicated therewith that they were soon pulled out; he continued to defend himself for three Hours and an half after he killed the Lieutenant, and it was thought, would have been killed upon the Spot, rather than have been taken, if he had retained the Use of his Limbs; but being also overcome with Liquor, was by that Means taken. The Lieutenant, we hear, was named Pantan, a young Gentleman between 20 and 30 Years of Age, and was much respected. The Captain of the Rose, after this tragical Affair, thought himself obliged to take Charge of the Brig, as well as the Men, & carried them to Boston. The Corpse of the Lieutenant was kept on board the Brig, where it was to remain till a Jury of Jury of Inquest should be summoned on the same.—Not one American belonged to the Brig.

The Rose Man of War, and the Brig with Mr. Pantan's Body on board, arrived at Boston last Tuesday, and on Friday his Remains were decently interred there. (3)

BOSTON, May 1. 1769.

Extract of a Letter from a Gentleman in London,

"The people here begin now to think pretty seriously that a regular plan of despotism is formed, & that in the repeated banishment of Mr. Wilkes their liberties are in imminent danger:—Some attempts have been made to lay before the public the state of your Colony, and to point out to the people of England, the dangerous consequences of the late measures, but you must know that the public papers are so severely watched and such powerful imprimaturs placed over them, that they will not print any thing that tends to open mens eyes, lest the honest part of the nation should seek revenge against their oppressors & destroyers.—You must, my dear Sir, depend on your own Steadiness and Firmness for your very Lives; you have no Mercy to expect from hence; Justice seems to have fled from us, and a Spirit of Plunder has taken up every Avenue of the Hearts of the once virtuous English.—You must most earnestly recommend to every merchant a Spirit of Manufacturing; and if the Address to his Majesty has no other Effect, I should think it will be attended with a universal Declaration upon Oath among the Inhabitants that they will, on no Condition whatever, use any Manufactures except their own, for a certain Number of Years—but on the contrary, should the People of Boston be pleased with the present quick Circulation of Cash, or from an inordinate Desire of Gain, arising from the Sale of English Goods, tamely set quiet and refuse to rouse the Spirit of Liberty and Independence thro' the Country.—I must lament over you, whose Situation will be worse than that of Jerusalem, when our Saviour beheld it with Tears, tho' you are left to be pitted; for if you will, with open Eyes, suffer the Shackles of Slavery to be fixed upon you, without one Struggle, you deserve the Iron Rod and the Egyptian Bondage."

Extract of a Letter from a Member of Parliament, to a Gentleman in this town, dated Feb. 17. 1769.

"The Colonies stand at present in a strange Point of Light here, especially from the late Resolves of the Assembly of New-York."

"Those who see the extensive Mischief which must arise from these Animosities are by such Conduct precluded from doing any Service, — they want some Influences of Temper and Moderation whereon to found Application for the Repeal of the late Acts and Regulations."

"Would the Colonies petition with Temper and with full Acknowledgement of the Supreme Right of this Country to regulate the general Commercial System, I have little Doubt that the unhappy Idea of Taxation would long, even forever, be laid aside."

We hear that His Majesty has been pleased to confer on his Excellency FRANCIS BERNARD, Esq; the Honor of a BARONET of Great-Britain.

We are told that some Enemies to the Constitution of this Province, have assured the M—y that the Agreement of the Merchants not to import any British Manufactures, until a Repeal of the late Duty Acts shall be obtained, would not be kept to, but they might depend that the private Interest of individuals would counterwork the Schemes of those who pretended a zeal and love for their Country was the motive in coming into such an Agreement, and that it was their Opinion that no Measure could be better calculated to alarm and embarrass the M—y, and bring about a Redress of American Grievances. — We hope however, that the disinterested virtue of our Merchants will appear in as advantageous a light as did that of our famous Ninety-two; and that it will not be in the Power of a few avaricious Traders, not to say Merchants, to force that respectable Body to a rescinding of those wise and salutary Restrictions."

Last Week Capt. Moleworth, of the 20th Regt. was married to Miss Sukey Sheaffe, Daughter of William Sheaffe, Esq; Deputy Collector for this Port.

We hear that the Rev. Mr. William Clark, Son to the late Rev. Mr. Peter Clark of Danvers, has received Ordination from the Bishop of London, for the Episcopal Church at Dedham, and would have returned in one of the last Vessels from England, but was not entirely recovered from the Small-Pox.

We hear that the Doctor of the Rose Man of War died a few Days ago on board said Ship.

Last Thursday three Deserters from the Regiment quartered here, which were lately taken up in the Province of New-Hampshire, were brought to Town, guarded by a Party of Soldiers sent there for that Purpose.

The same Day Badger, Donnelly, & Carmichael, the three Persons convicted of setting Fire to the Goal here, as lately mentioned, were set upon the Gallows during the Space of one Hour, & afterwards whipt 30 Stripes each, pursuant to their Sentence.

On Friday last his Excellency the Governor was pleased to issue the King's Writ for calling a new General Assembly to be convened at Boston on Wednesday the 31st of this Month; and we hear that Precepts are issued to the several Towns in this Province for the electing Members for that Purpose.

Yesterday Morning arrived the Raven Transport from St. Kitts, having on board Colonel Mackay, with the Remainder of the 65th Regiment: — The above Vessel was separated from the other Transports from Ireland last Fall, and blown off the Coast.

The Merchants of this Town met according to Adjournment on Thursday last, when the Committee appointed to make Enquiry relative to the Importation of Goods by the Vessels lately arrived from Great Britain, reported, That five or six Persons, who were signers to the late Agreement, had received a few Articles (the remains of former Orders) and were ready to deliver them up to the Care of the Committee; and that some who were not Signers had imported some Goods prohibited by the late Agreement, which as to Quality and Quantity were very small. — The Merchants then appointed a Committee to confer with the Persons last mentioned, and to consider what measures might be proper to take to prevent any further Importations, and then adjourned their Meeting to Tuesday next, [To-Morrow] at 4 o'Clock, P. M. to be held at Faneuil Hall, at which Time and Place a general Attendance of Merchants is desired, and those who have imported in the late Vessels are particularly requested to be present.

THE Honorable the Commissioners of His Majesty's Customs, observing that Ships and Vessels frequently incur Forfeitures, and their Owners become subject to heavy Penalties, thro' the Misconduct or Negligence of the Masters and Seamen; and particularly by the Masters not making true Reports of their Cargoes, which they sometimes pretend they are not able to do, from the Manner that they take in their Loading at Foreign Ports: And at other Times they pretend that the Seamen take on board private Ventures, and secrete the same from their Knowledge, so as to be landed clandestinely upon their arrival without payment of Duty.

And several Ships and Vessels seized for the Commission of Offences of this Kind having been released in Consequence of such Representations from the Owners: The Commissioners think it necessary to advertise for the Information of all Persons whom it may concern, That upon the Detection & Discovery of any such Offences in future, the same will be prosecuted as the Law directs; so that it behoves the Owners to suppress the Custom of suffering the Seamen to take in private Ventures; and also to admopish the Masters to be punctual in taking an Account of their Cargoes, and to pay a strict Regard to their Oaths in reporting the same, as well at the Ports of their first arrival, as the Ports of Entry in North-America. Boston, April 12. 1769.

Boston 22 April, 1769.

S A L E M, April 23.

A very melancholy Accident happened, last Saturday Morning, on board the Brig Pitt-Packet, commanded by Capt. Thomas Power, belonging to Marblehead, and bound in there from Cádiz: The Brig, when within about 10 Leagues of Cape Ann, came across the Roche Ma of War, was boarded, and two of her Men impressed; but these being, for some Reasons, released, the Lieutenant of the Roche, with a Number of Men, again boarded the Brig, in order to take some of the other Men, who, in Number, had secured themselves in the Fore-peak, determining to defend themselves, with some Harpoons, &c. they had provided for the Purpose, as long as they had Life: The Lieutenant made use of moderate, kind and persuasive Arguments, and offered, first to take but two, and afterwards but one, if they would surrender themselves; but all Proposals and Intreaties being ineffectual to induce them to comply, the Lieutenant informed them that he was determined to make use of Force; and the Sailors as resolutely protested that they would kill any who should attempt to take them: A Pistol Charge of Powder was first fired at them, which burst the Fuse of one Michael Corbett; and afterwards another of them received a Pistol Shot in his Arm, which broke the Bone: This increased their Resolution of dying rather than to surrender: And their whole Conduct seemed to manifest such an Abhorrence of being forced on board a Man of War, as to prefer Death to such a Life as they deemed Slavery.—They repeatedly declared they would kill the first Man that offered to approach them: And a Man the Lieutenant sent in to begin the Attack upon them, was considerably wounded; on which he retreated. The Lieutenant then told them that he would lead the Way to them himself: Corbett answered him, with the most solemn Protestations, and called Almighty God to Witness, that so far as he advanced one Inch further, he should instantly lose his Life. The Lieutenant told them he had seen many brave Fellows, should take a Pinch of Snuff, and then consider of it; which having deliberately done, he began to step towards them, when Corbett, agreeable to his Promise, immediately threw a Harpoon, which did instant Execution, it hit the Lieutenant near his Throat, and cut the jugular Vein; on which he only had Time to say, that they had taken his Life; and, gasping three or four Times, fell down and expired. The Sailors still continued to defend themselves, notwithstanding there was a large Number of Marines at this Time on board the Brig; but having provided themselves with a Quantity of Liquor, all but Corbett became so intoxicated therewith that they were soon pulled out; he continued to defend himself for three Hours and an half after he killed the Lieutenant, and it was thought, would have been killed upon the Spot, rather than have been taken, if he had retained the Use of his Limbs; but being also overcome with Liquor, was by that Means taken. The Lieutenant, we hear, was named Paddison, a young Gentleman between 20 and 30 Years of Age, and was much respected. The Captain of the Roche, after this tragical Affair, thought himself obliged to take Charge of the Brig, as well as the Men, and carried them to Boston. The Corps of the Lieutenant was kept on board the Brig, where it was to remain till a Jury of Inquest should be summoned on the same.—Not one American belonged to the Brig.

Thursday last Captain Coleman arrived here in 30 Days from London, by whom we have Prints to the 4th of March, from which we have taken the following Articles.

L O N D O N, MARCH 19.

Yesterday morning came on, at Brentford, the Election of a Knight of the Shire, for the County of Middlesex, when John Wilkes, Esq; was re-elected without opposition. Mrs. Dingley, who had offered herself as a Candidate by advertisement in the Papers, appeared on the Hustings, but was not proposed by any Gentleman present. And though the Sherrifs repeatedly went round the Hustings to ask if any Gentleman would offer himself as a Candidate, no one was nominated, whereupon Mr. Wilkes was declared duly elected.

March 18. Last night a popular Gentleman was expelled from a certain Assembly.
A new writ is ordered to be issued for the Election of a Knight of the Shire for the County of Middlesex, in the room of John Wilkes, Esq; he being adjudged incapable.

S T. JAMES'S, MARCH 22.

This day a most numerous body of the Merchants, Traders, and other principal Inhabitants of the City of London, waited on his Majesty by the Earl of Hertford, Lord Chamberlain of the Household: they presented the following Address.

To the King's most Excellent Majesty.

MOST GRACIOUS SOVEREIGN,

WE your Majesty's most dutiful and loyal Subjects, the Merchants, Traders, and other principal Inhabitants of your City of London, truly sensible, that it has been your Majesty's constant care and principal object, since you ascended the Throne of your illustrious Ancestors, to secure to your people the full enjoyment of their religion, laws, and liberties inviolable; and to make them happy and flourishing, under your Majesty's most auspicious government; beg leave to profess our steady loyalty and duty to your Majesty, and our firm resolution to exert our utmost power in supporting the honour and dignity of your Majesty's Crown, in preserving the safety, peace, and tranquillity of your Majesty's realms, in maintaining public credit, and promoting commerce, for the benefit of your subjects throughout your dominions.

And we beg leave to express our concern and abhorrence of every attempt to spread sedition, to inflame the minds and alienate the affections of a free and loyal People from the best of Kings, and his government, which we apprehend has of late been encouraged, without the least shadow of foundation, by some few ill-designing persons, to answer sinister and selfish purposes.

And we most sincerely pray Almighty God, that your Majesty's great and bright example of piety, goodness, and clemency may operate so effectually upon the minds of your People, as to suppress that spirit of licentiousness, profaneness, and irreligion, which has been industriously propagated, to delude the many to their own destruction; and that the same good Providence will grant your Majesty a long and happy reign over a dutiful and loyal People, and bless your endeavours with success, in a firm and permanent establishment of our most excellent constitution, which is not only admired, but envied by all Foreign Nations.

To which Address his Majesty was pleased to return this most gracious Answer.

THIS just sense you entertain of my desire to secure to my people the full enjoyment of their Religion, Laws, and Liberties; and the strong assurances you give me of your resolution to support the dignity of my Crown, to preserve peace among my subjects, to maintain public credit, and to promote commerce, afford me the greatest satisfaction; as well as your abhorrence of that inflammatory spirit of sedition, which has been the business of artful and specious misrepresentation to propagate.

The warm wishes you express for the stability and permanence of this happy constitution, and the interest you take in my prosperity, will always deserve my favour and protection.

They were all most graciously received, and had the honour to kiss his Majesty's hand.

L O N D O N, MARCH 23.

Yesterday at noon, a great number of the most opulent Merchants, &c. of this City, set out from the Royal Exchange, in their carriages in order to present an Address to his Majesty, attended by the City Marshal and about a dozen Constables; before they got to Cheshide, the mob shewed them many marks of their resentment, hissing, groaning, throwing dirt, &c. but when they arrived near St. Dunstan's Church, in Fleet street, the multitude grew quite outrageous, broke the windows and panels of several carriages, by throwing of stones, dirt, and rubbish into them; and dispatched a party to shut the gates at Temple Bar, on which the cavalcade was obliged to stop. Mr. Cook, the City Marshal, and his attendants, going to open the gates, were very severely treated; Mr. Cook's cloaths were torn off his back, and his head cut in two places. He was obliged to take shelter in the Tavern the corner of Shere-lane. The populace then attacked the Gentlemen in their carriages: Mr. Bocham, Mr. Mailman, Mr. Anderson, Mr. Watkins, and many other Gentlemen were covered with dirt, and obliged to take shelter in Nando's Coffee House. Some of the coaches then drove up Chancery lane, Fetter-lane, and Shoe-lane; but the greatest part of the Gentlemen, finding it impossible to proceed, returned home. The Address, however, did, at length, reach St. James's, but the mob threw dirt at the Gentlemen as they got out of their carriages at St. James's Gate. A hearse, with two white horses and two black, joined in the train at Exeter-Change, and followed all the way to St. James's.

Yesterday the Lord Steward of his Majesty's Household had his Lord broke by the mob at St. James's, on his appearance to protect the Gentlemen who came with the Address.

Joseph Watkins, jun. Esq; delivered the Address to his Majesty, which was graciously received. It was signed by above one thousand principal Merchants and Traders of this City.

The glasses of the Duke of Kingston's chariot were broke by the same Gentry at St. James's; the riotous proceedings still increasing, and likely to prove extremely outrageous, the horse guards were obliged to be sent for, which proved the only effectual remedy to such licentious behaviour, and made a total dispersion of the mob: seventeen of the rioters were taken into custody, and were carried before Sir John Fielding to be dealt with according to Law.

March 24. The number of Gentlemen who set out with the Address were about 600, and on y between 120 and 150, reached St. James's, whose carriages were covered with dirt and much damaged.

The rage of the mob was scarce ever known to last so long as it did on Wednesday, there being scarce any abatement at their entry from Cheshide till they were dispersed by the horse guards at St. James's.

Yesterday morning his Majesty's Proclamation for the suppressing of riots, tumults, and unlawful assemblies, was read and stuck up at the Royal Exchange, Whitehall, and in other public places in the City of London, and Westminster.

Lawrence Balle and Edward M. Quicke, the magistrates, were yesterday discharged out of Newgate having given bail to preserve his Majesty's peace.

It is said Charles Froth, Esq; had some Time ago employed a very curious Workman in this Town to make a set of Springs for his Chariot, which were accepted and used for a Year without Complaint. The Squire afterwards fancying to have them lengthened, sent for the Smith again, and proposed the Alteration; which, he readily agreed he would make; and having perfected them to his Mind, returned them. Being asked what was his charge; he demanded the Price first agreed on, with the Addition for his last Labour. This Mr. Froth most strenuously objected to; and said he hoped to see the Day when Traditmen and the People in America in general, would be enabled to that Degree, that they would be as submissive to Government as they were in Europe. Agree, Did Mr. Froth, by Submission to Government, mean that every Subject should be compelled to the most perfect Compliance with the insatiable Demand of every Mr. Worshipful C— as American Board of Customs?

Last Saturday Night was married at Hampton, Capt. Moleworth of the 54th Regiment, to Miss Suckey Sheaf, daughter of William Sheaf, Esq; deputy collector for the port of Boston.

We hear that his Majesty has been pleased to confer on his Excellency FRANCIS BERNARD, Esq; the Honor of a BARONET of Great Britain.

To Sir ———— Adams
As an individual Inhabitant of this Province, tho' obscure and mean, I beg leave to present my congratulatory Compliment to your ——— on the high honor you now sustain, of a BARONET of Great Britain. This is a Promotion which the friends of Government, or which is the same thing, your own friends have long thought you justly merited. And even your Enemies and the falsely Leaders themselves must confess, that the eminent Services you have done for the prostat M— have been such as my L— of ——— that Patron of true worth could not have fail'd to set forth in the most distinguishing point of Light. Your Promotion, Sir, reflects an honor on the Province itself: An Honor which has never before conferr'd upon it, since the thrice happy administration of Sir EDMOND ANDROSS, of precious memory, who was also a BARONET; nor have the unremitted Endeavors of that very amiable and truly patriotic Gentleman, to render the most substantial and lasting Services to this people, upon the plan of a self and uninterrupted set of M—, been ever paralleled, till since you advent the Chair. Your own Letters will serve to convince the World, and the latest Posterity, that while you have constantly preferred a sacred and inviolable regard to punctilious TRUTH, in every Representation, which you have made of the people of your Province, you have carefully endeavor'd to give the most favorable Colouring to their Conduct and Reputation: And the Transcripts which you have ever remarkably felt for their civil Rights as well as their Religion, will not admit of the least Room to question, but that even the Influence you have excellent employ'd with Success, to introduce a MILITARY Power, and the unwearied Pains you took to get them quarter'd in the Body of the Town, sprang from your Pity and Benevolence of Heart. Pity it is that you have not a PENSION to support your Title: But an assembly well chase, may supply that want even to your wish. Should this fail, a late Letter, said to have strongly recommended a Tax upon the IMPROVED LANDS of the Colonies, may be equally successful with the other Letters of the like Nature, and FUNDS SUFFICIENT may be rais'd for the Use and Emolument of yourself and friends, without a Dependence upon a military establishment supported by the Province at Charles-William. I am, Sir, with the most profound Respect, and with the sincerest Wishes for your further Exaltation, the most faithful of all your Tools. A TORY.

The Treasurer of the County of Suffolk, hereby notifies the several Constables and Collectors of Taxes for said County, That as the County now pays Interest for a large Sum of Money advanced for the New Court-House, and as there has not been any Province Tax raised the last Year, it is expected that those in a particular Manner who have been long in Arrears, as well as others, make their Payments to him with all possible Speed. THE Honorable the Commissioners of His Majesty's Customs, observing that Ships and Vessels frequently incur Penalties, and their Owners become subject to heavy Penalties, thro' the Misconduct or Negligence of the Masters and Seamen; and particularly by the Masters not making true Reports of their Cargoes, which they sometimes pretend they are not able to do, from the Manner that they take in their Loading at Foreign Ports: And at other times they pretend that the Seamen take on board private Ventures, and secure the same from their Knowledge, so as to be landed clandestinely upon their arrival without payment of Duty.

And several Ships and Vessels seized for the Commission of Offences of this Kind having been seized in Consequence of such Representations from the Owners: The Commissioners think it necessary to advertise for the Information of all Persons whom it may concern, That upon the Detection and Discovery of any such Offences in future, the same will be prosecuted as the Law directs; so that it behooves the Owners to suppress the Customs of suffering the Seamen to take in private Ventures; and also to admonish the Masters to be punctual in taking an Account of their Cargoes, and pay a strict regard to their Oaths in reporting the same, as well as the Ports of their first arrival, as the Ports of Entry in North-America.
